

Bill Wolff
Writing, Research, Technology, Spring 2015
Mid-Assignment Blogging Reflection

Name: _____

As we approach the middle of the semester, it is important to take stock of where we are with our blogging and what we might improve upon. Reflecting on your own writing is even more important than being told what I think about your writing. As a result, I'd like you to assess your blog posts and I will then do the same. When assessing your work, please refer to the Blogging Assignment for specifics.

For each of the Blogging Activities, please rank each on a scale from 1 – 5, with 1 being roughly equivalent to an F and 5 being roughly equivalent to an A. Place the number under the You heading for each Post and Reflection Post. Remember, as written on the syllabus, grades in the A-range are those that show the student working at levels significantly higher than what is expected. Grades in the B-range are those that show the student working at levels at or just above what are expected. Grades at the C-level and below are those that show the student working at levels below what is expected.

Note: these are not official grades. Rather, the exercise is designed to help you reflect on your work so your final 4 blog posts can be the most effective yet. Those 4 will receive official grades.

Blogging Activities	Post 1 (ZenPen)		Post 2 (GoogleDocs)		Post 3 (phone/tablet app)
	You	BW	You	BW	You	BW
Use of Links					N/A	N/A
Use of Multimedia					N/A	N/A
References to course texts
Length
Overall Quality

Blogging Activities	Reflection 1		Reflection 2		Reflection 3
	You	BW	You	BW	You	BW
Use of Links
Use of Multimedia
Addressing each question
Length
Overall Quality

What pleases you about your blogging? List up to 5 things.

What concerns do you have about your blogging? List up to 5 concerns.

List 3 ways you hope to improve blogging in your last 4 posts.
